SATURDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 4.

IS IT Worth White?

It is worth while to jostle a brother,
Bring his load on the rough road of life?
Is it worth while that we jar at each other—
Is blackness of heart we war to the knife?
God pity us all in our painful strife.

God pity us all as we jostle each other:
God punts us all for the triumph we feel
When a fellow goes down 'neath his load on the heather.

Pierced to the heart: Words are keener than steel,

And mightier far for woes and for woe.

Were it not well, in this brief little journey
O'er the 1,000 miles, down into the dust?
We give him a b'nh instead of a serpent,
Ere finding the hands to be abd' abd'.

For ever and aye at his side?

Look at the rosses railing each other;
Look at the herds all at peace on the plain—

Man, and man, only, make w'r on his brother,
And laughs in his heart at his peril and pain.

Seemingly he boasts that go down on the plain.

Is it worth while that we battle to bumble
Some poor fellow down into the dust?
God pity us all! Time soon will tumble!

A lot ussing-there, like leaves in a gale;

Humble'd, indeed, down into the dust.

—Joaquin Miller.
